Joshua Stafford in Concert

First Presbyterian Church

Tuesday, June 16, 2015 at 7:30 p.m.

Joshua Stafford is the Director of Music at St. Peter's Episcopal Church in Morristown, N.J., where he conducts an RSCM-based program with choirs of boys, girls, and adults. The choir program is paired with an afterschool outreach program for underserved children, offering excellent music education at no cost.

A native of Jamestown, NY, Joshua began piano studies at the age of six. His interest in the organ was sparked at a Pipe Organ Encounter held by the Chautauqua, N.Y. chapter of the American Guild of Organists that he attended at the age of ten. He received the Bachelor of Music degree in 2010 from the prestigious Curtis Institute of Music in Philadelphia, where he was a full-tuition scholarship student of Alan Morrison. He then attended the Yale University School of Music and Institute of Sacred Music, where he earned a Master's Degree in Organ Performance and the Certificate in Church Music in May 2012. His principal teachers at Yale were Thomas Murray (organ) and Jeffrey Brillhart (improvisation), and he was a recipient of both a full-tuition scholarship and the Robert Baker Award. Joshua's former teachers include Jared Jacobsen and James Bigham. He has previously served as Fellow in Music at St. Paul's, K Street, Washington, D.C. and Director of Music at St. Andrew's Church, Stamford, Connecticut.

As a recitalist and improviser, Joshua has performed at such notable venues as the National Shrine of the Immaculate Conception, Philadelphia's Kimmel Center, Princeton University Chapel, Ocean Grove Auditorium, Spivey Hall, and Chautauqua Institution. Joshua has also served as an Assistant Organist at the Wanamaker Organ in Philadelphia. He has been a featured performer on the nationally syndicated radio show Pipedreams and WRTI's Wanamaker Organ Hour. Joshua has also appeared with the National Symphony Orchestra, Curtis Symphony Orchestra, and the Washington Chorus.

Prélude et danse fuguée Gaston Litaize (1919-1991)

Born in northeast France in 1909, Gaston Litaize lost his sight soon after birth. After studying at the Institute for the Blind, he moved to Paris to study with Adolphe Marty at the Institut National des Jeunes Aveugles. He also entered the Paris Conservatoire studying with Marcel Dupré, and studied privately with Louis Vierne. Established as both an organist and composer of the highest order, he embarked on a distinguished performing and academic career. Influenced by the increased interest in early music, Litaize's compositions project a freshness, clarity, and ebullience all their own. Published in 1964, when Litaize was organist of St. Francois-Xavier in Paris. After a sparkling and coloristic prelude, the consequent fugue almost calls to mind J.S. Bach's monumental "Wedge" Fugue (BWV 548), with an intervallically expanding and contracting fugue subject. This angular wedge builds up to an exciting conclusion, where the subject is presented with an accompaniment of dense cluster chords.

Roulade, Op. 9, No. 3 Seth Bingham (1882-1972)

Born in Bloomfield, New Jersey, Seth Bingham was involved with church music from his childhood, which would eventually lead to his matriculation at Yale University, where he studied with Harry Jepson (Yale's first University Organist) and Horatio Parker. While in college, he traveled to Paris to study with Alexandre Guilmant, Vincent D'Indy, and Charles-Marie Widor. After Yale, he became organist and choirmaster at Madison Avenue Presbyterian Church, and held academic positions at the School of Sacred Music at Union Theological Seminary and Columbia University. Dedicated to David McK. Williams, organist of St. Bartholomew's in NYC, his Roulade has enjoyed wide popularity, thanks in part to Virgil Fox's famous recording of it at the Riverside Church. The creative use of chromatic tonality, color, and varying texture has made it an enduring staple of twentieth-century American organ repertoire.

Vorspiel zu "Hänsel und Gretel" Engelbert Humperdinck (1854-1921)

Premiered in 1893, and performed under the auspicious batons of Richard Strauss and Gustav Mahler, Engelbert Humperdinck's opera Hansel and Gretel recounts the classic fairy-tale through a libretto set by the composer's sister, accompanied by folk-inspired music. Originally conceived of as a chamber opera for children, it became wildly popular among children and adults alike. Humperdinck, who began his career as Richard Wagner's assistant in Bayreuth, composed other orchestral and operatic works, but his reputation is based on Hansel and Gretel.

Musically, the Prelude, like the opera itself, sets seemingly charming melodies in a harmonically and thematically sophisticated manner. Like his mentor Wagner, Humperdinck uses leitmotifs to depict ideas and people, transforming them throughout the work. In the prelude, one hears, among others, the spritely cuckoo and the theme of the angels.

Almost exactly contemporary to Humperdinck, Edwin Henry Lemare gained notoriety by playing over one-hundred recitals at the Inventions Exhibition in 1884, leading to increasingly notable appointments. In 1900, he left for a hundred-recital tour of North America, and remained in America until his death in 1934. Assisting in the design of multiple municipal organs, he gained fame among organists for his prolific transcription of orchestral and popular works. Lemare's genius was not necessarily in his ability to transcribe entire scores, but in his ability to highlight the important elements of score, while simultaneously creating idiomatically organistic pieces. Lemare's arrangement only heightens the charm of the original: the myriad colors and breadth of an orchestra are at the hands of one performer, as if the organist were recounting the classic fairy tale to a small audience, rapt with anticipation and attention.

Fantasie und Fuge über den Choral Ad nos, ad salutarem undam, S.259 Franz Liszt (1811-1886)

Composed in the winter of 1850, Franz Liszt's monumental Fantasy and Fugue on "Ad nos, ad salutarem undam" derives its theme from the third act of Giacomo Meyerbeer's successful 1849 opera, Le prophète, based on the life of John of Leyden, a sixteenth century religious zealot. Though not as successful as Meyerbeer's earlier work, Les Hugenots, it proved influential: themes from it may be found in Verdi's Il trovatore and Wagner's Götterdämmerung. In third act of Le prophète, three Anabaptists encounter a horde of peasants in the countryside, and begin encouraging rebellion. In the midst of this, they sing the well-known theme, both extolling their religious beliefs, but also rebellion against the gentry. The theme itself is said to be a traditional Jewish melody, though Meyerbeer and Liszt consequently altered it.

The first half of the fantasia begins in c-minor with an ominous introduction and three sections of variations mingled with cadenzas. After a long build up and climax, the complete tune is presented in F# major. After the aftermath of this climax, the melody is developed and showcased in different ranges and with different accompaniments. Following is the fugue, where the lyrical, duple-metered subject is transformed into a jaunty and romping fugue subject. Again, the c-minor subject is transformed into the brightness of F# major, where a fanfare and rapid modulations bring the piece back to c-minor, and, in line with Romantic tropes, ends in C-Major, darkness transformed into light. In terms of sonata form, the Fantasy represents the exposition, the Adagio the development, and the Fugue the recapitulation and coda, although perhaps the work is better understood in terms of a rotation of themes.

The performance of this massive work is problematic: not only did Liszt revise the work in subsequent years, but Liszt also prepared a piano duet version. In addition, Liszt himself performed a version for solo piano (although he never seems to have notated it). Given the fluidity of the text, does one present one version, verbatim? Combine multiple versions? Today's performance seeks to embody the spirit of the performance tradition of Liszt, adapting Liszt's text to not only the instrument, but the spirit of the moment, with great respect for the masterpiece Liszt has left us.

CHERRY RHODES AND LADD THOMAS HONORED BY THE AMERICAN GUILD OF ORGANISTS AT GLENDALE, CALIFORNIA GALA

Celebration of the Lifetime Achievements of Internationally Acclaimed Organists and University Professors Raised $60,000 Benefitting the AGO Endowment Fund

NEW YORK CITY — The American Guild of Organists (AGO) presented its twelfth annual Endowment Fund Distinguished Artist Award Recital and Gala Benefit Reception honoring Cherry Rhodes and Ladd Thomas on Friday, April 17, at the First United Methodist Church of Glendale, Calif., where Dr. Thomas has served as organist for 55 years. An audience of more than 500 colleagues, students, friends, and loved ones came together to celebrate the lifetime achievements of this dynamic musical couple.

The Gala was sponsored by the AGO National Council and its Development Committee in cooperation with the First United Methodist Church of Glendale. The event raised approximately $60,000 to be invested in the AGO Endowment Fund in the couple's honor. Annual earnings from the Endowment support the educational activities of the Guild.

The honorees performed a recital that included Mendelssohn's Sonata No. 1 in F Minor (Thomas), Moussorgsky's Pictures at an Exhibition, transcribed by Jean Guillou (Rhodes), and combined their talents on the organ bench in a rare organ duet performance of The Sorcerer's Apprentice by Dukas, as arranged by Rayner Brown for their exclusive use. The Gala Benefit Reception followed at the Hilton Los Angeles North/Glendale Hotel with 200 guests in attendance.

AGO President John Walker, FAGO, presented the honorees with the AGO Endowment Fund Distinguished Artist Award "for their exemplary careers as stellar performers and passionate teachers, and their lifelong service to the AGO and the sacred music profession."

Established in 1994, the AGO Endowment Fund provides income to educate new organists and to cultivate new audiences for organ and choral music. Tax-deductible contributions to the Endowment Fund are invested in perpetuity to produce continuing income for essential Guild programs and educational projects. The AGO's annual Gala travels around the country to celebrate distinguished members of the organ world. Past AGO Gala honorees have included Marie-Claire Alain (New York City), Charles Callahan (St. Louis), David Craighead (Philadelphia), Gerre and Judith Hancock (New York City), Joyce Jones (Fort Worth), Marilyn Keiser (New York City), Marilyn Mason (Ann Arbor), Thomas Murray (New Haven), John Obetz (Kansas City), Frederick Swann (Los Angeles), and John and Marianne Weaver (Philadelphia).

Those unable to attend the 2015 AGO Gala will receive a copy of the commemorative program book with their contribution of $50 or more to the AGO Endowment Fund. Contributions in honor of Cherry Rhodes and Ladd Thomas can be made online at Agohq.org or by mailing a check to: AGO Endowment Fund, 475 Riverside Drive, Suite 1260, New York, NY 10115. All gifts will be acknowledged in The American Organist. For information, please call 212-870-2311, ext. 4308, or e-mail gala@agohq.org. ■
